Columbia Gorge & The Oregon Coast

As the Lewis and Clark expedition traveled the Columbia River nearly 200 years ago, they marveled at the sights around them. For thousands of years American Indian tribes made their homes in and near the Gorge, taking advantage of the lush plant life and plentiful salmon. Today's explorer can also marvel at the rugged and diverse beauty of the Columbia River Gorge.

Stretching from Troutdale to the Deschutes River area is a breathtaking river canyon and along the Columbia River's scenic curves tumble many waterfalls including the famous Multnomah Falls. Travellers are offered dramatic views. Travel to Astoria, Cannon Beach, Manzanita, Tillamook and Seaside.
